Crucible

0000

A small, empty clay vase that is always warm to touch. You may access the contents of this envelope if you have a gamma score of two or higher.

Pestilence

Crucible

0000

Your entire body flushes with heat. If you have lost blood, the crucible lets you regenerate it. You may take blood from this envelope and treat it as non-extracted blood, but you cannot have more than three portions of blood in your body at a time.

If you haven't lost blood, veins burst all over your body and you lose 1 CR for half an hour. However, you realize that the crucible might help you regenerate blood if you ever lose some.

If there is no blood in this envelope, the crucible's power has been exhausted. It's simply a clay vase now.

Research Notes on Blood Magic 0000

Someone has been studying blood magic. Tut tut tut. Not a wise decision.

These notes have an extra meaning to you if you have a belief score. In that case, open the envelope.

Research Notes on Blood Magic

At first, the notes seem little more than the town's usual magical gibberish. Upon further inspection, however, you notice some startling observations. Regenerating blood? Cells that can multiply indefinitely without losing its differentiation and turning cancerous? You have little time to examine this closely, but you need to take these notes back to the capital and study them. This could save your lab! This could save millions of people!

The handwriting seems familiar, however. Is this Victoria's research? Should you tell her about this? What if she refuses to let you use this? Will she think you stole from her?

(OOC: The notes are represented by the envelope, not this paper. Do not separate this paper from the envelope)

Was that cold syrup? You don't feel any different. Item is destroyed

Your insides are burning and it doesn't stop. Your CR drops to 0, and you are unable to attack, assist, use weapons or use your combat abilities for the rest of the game. If you were infected, you are no longer infected and you lose your ability to spread the plague. If you weren't infected, all you know is that you are probably crippled for the rest of your life. Item is destroyed
